

Changes to NJ Cleanup Laws – What You Need to Know

Montclair State University, CELS Building, Room 120 – Friday, September 27, 2019

Focus: On August 23, Governor Phil Murphy signed legislation amending the Site Remediation Reform Act, or SRRA, as it is better known. These amendments represent the first major changes to New Jersey's landmark cleanup law, which was originally enacted in 2009, forever changing how New Jersey handles contaminated sites. This session will cover those amendments and what they mean to cleanups moving forward. Whether you are a licensed site remediation professional, an attorney representing clients on a cleanup, or a developer or responsible party on the front line overseeing a cleanup, this is an event that cannot be missed. As an added bonus, the session will cover other changes on the horizon which could further impact New Jersey's site remediation.
